

The Daily Courant.

Friday, July 23. 1708.

London, July 23.

The following Advices, came by the Mail from Holland of Friday last.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated July 27.

Naples, July 3.

CARDINAL Vincenzo Grimani arriv'd here last Sunday, accompanied by the principal Nobility of this Kingdom, and was receiv'd with universal Applause: Yesterday he took Possession of the Viceroyship with the usual Solemnity. Count Thaun, his Predecessor, set out on Monday for Piemont. The Prince of Darmstadt, Commander in chief of the Forces in this Kingdom, came hither the 29th inst.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated July 26.

Rome, July 7. Cardinal Grimani has written a Letter to Cardinal Paolucci, in which he acquaints him that the Emperour has no Intention to make War against the Pope and the Ecclesiastical State; and that if his Holiness will give Security for the Safety of the Imperial Garrison of Comachio, which was formerly acknowledg'd to be an Imperial Fief for 900 Years together, the Emperour will immediately withdraw all the rest of his Troops out of the Ferrareze.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated July 27.

Milan, July 10. This Morning Count Thaun arriv'd here from Naples, and went on Post for San Pietro d'Arena, to make his Compliments to the Queen of Spain before she imbarks for Barcelona: Which done, he will proceed to the Army of the Duke of Savoy.

Milan, July 14. The Queen of Spain arriv'd the 11th at San Pietro d'Arena; and took up her Lodging in the Palace of M. imperiale, which he has caus'd to be Magnificently furnish'd. Her Majesty would not pass through Genoa, nor receive the Compliments which M. Doria and Grimaldi were appointed to make to her on the Part of the Republic, because the Ceremonial could not be agreed. She caus'd all the Expence of her Journey through the Territory of Genoa to be paid duely, and her Guards to observe exact Discipline.

From the Amst. and Leid. Gaz. dated, July 27.

Venice, July 14. They write from Padua, that the Corpse of the Duke of Mantua being embalm'd, is plac'd there in the Church of St. Francis, till Leave be obtain'd of the Emperour to remove it to Mantua, and interr it among his Ancestors. Our Doge has caus'd all the Effects he left behind him in his Palaces here and at Padua, to be secur'd; in order to their being Sold for Payment of his Debts. The Marquis de Prié, the Emperour's Plenipotentiary in Italy, had a Conference 2 or 3 Days ago near Ferrara with the Cardinal Legate Casoni; after which the Cardinal dispatch'd a Courier to the Pope, to inform him what had pass'd between them. From this, 'tis conjectur'd that the Differences between the Imperial Court and that of Rome, are in a Way of being accommodated amicably.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated July 26.

Geneva, July 17. Yesterday 2 Expresses from the French General Medavi who is in the District of Maurienne, pass'd through this Place, to inform Brigadier Prade (as the Report goes) who is in the Chablais, that the Duke of Savoy was in Motion to break into the Maurienne, while General Schuylenbourg penetrates through the Tarantaise; directing besides, that the French should retire into the Fort of Baros, to defend that and Dauphine.

'Tis said the French have put 12 Battallions into Toulon; and are fitting out the Gallies at Marseilles to send thither.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated July 27.

Geneva, July 17. The Duke of Savoy is in full March to enter Savoy by the Way of Conflans. His Army is compos'd of 34239 Men: Viz. 8556 Foot, and 5708 Horse, Imperialists; 7975 Prussian Foot; 9000 Foot, and 3000 of his own Troops. Which Army may be reinforc'd by Draughts out of divers Garrisons.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated July 27.

From the Imperial Camp at Muhlberg, July 21. 20 Pieces of Artillery are to be sent to us from Landau. To Day we expect from Philipsburg the last Materials for our Bridge of Pontons. General Mercy is detach'd towards the Brigaw with some Regiments, and is to be follow'd by the whole Army who have Bread distributed to them for 10 Days: Only 6000 Men under the Prince of Durlach are to remain in the Lines. The bad Weather has made the Rhine overflow. The Enemy had corrupted some of our Bakers to put Poison into the Bread for our Army, and some of our Soldiers have died of it, but one of the Accomplices having discover'd it, 7 others have been seiz'd and punish'd according to their Deserts. The Enemy's Troops have begun to abandon their Lines on the Lutter, and move higher up the Country.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated July 26.

Audenaerde, July 20. When the French Prisoners were on their Departure from hence, the Duke de St. Agnan waited on our Governour, and thank'd him for the civil Usage all the Prisoners had had here. General Verue deliver'd to our Governour a Writing, by which he and all the Prisoners sent from hence, oblig'd themselves on their Word and Honour not to make their Escape, but to remain Prisoners, and to be at Breda within 6 Days; and therefore only 30 Men were sent with them to guard them from Robbers. When they were between this Place and Grammont, a Detachment of 6000 of the Enemy advanc'd to rescue them; but the General Officers commanding that Detachment, being inform'd what Obligation they were under, they took Leave of each other, and the Detachment return'd to their Camp.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated July 27.

Hulst, July 23. All necessary Precautions are taken for the securing of this Place against any Attempt of the Enemy, who 'tis believ'd will hardly offer to molest these Quarters, because we can overflow the Country. Some Gunners are arriv'd here from Zealand, and to Morrow some Troops are expected from the neighbouring Places. Major General Murray is encamp'd at Blierveld, with the Detachment he commands.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated July 28.

Ghent, July 24. The French Army continue encamp'd at Lovendegem, and make strong Intrenchments, which were view'd Yesterday by the Dukes of Burgundy, Berry, and Vendome. Provisions are yet at a moderate Price, both here and in their Army, because the Boors are oblig'd to furnish the Camp and this Place on pain of being Plunder'd. The Villages are enjoy'd to bring in a good Number of Pallisades. In the said Camp of the French, which is made stronger from time to time, arriv'd a Convoy last Saturday of Provisions and Ammunition from Newport. Boats are sent daily from hence to Audenaerde, to fetch our Wounded, as well Officers as Soldiers, from thence, Above 2000 of our wounded Men, are already dead here.

From

From the Camp at Werwick, July 26. The Enemy have detach'd from their Army between Ghent and Bruges 40 Squadrons of Horse, who were Yesterday at Bourbourg between Dunkirk and Calais; from whence they are marching to join the Duke of Berwick near Doway, in Order to cover their Frontier. We have Intelligence, that these are to be follow'd by 6000 Foot. This Afternoon came Advice, that Part of the heavy Cannon and Ammunition from Sas van Ghent arriv'd Yesterday at Brussels: What comes from Maestricht, is expected at Brussels the 28th. In the mean time the Castellanes of Lille, Ipres and Tournay, and all the Country between this and Brussels, have been summon'd to send in great Numbers of Waggon and Horses to draw it up to the Army. The General Officers and others of our Army do likewise furnish a great Number of Horses for this Service. The 24th the Duke of Marlborough having Intelligence that the Duke of Berwick was march'd from Doway to Tournay, with 23 Squadrons of his Troops and the Horse of the Garrison of Lille; and that his Design was to fall upon our heavy Baggage in their Way hither from Aeth; Order'd 16 Squadrons more to March and join their Guard. Whereupon the Enemy did not think fit to make any Attempt, and last Night the whole came safe to the Camp. Yesterday in the Afternoon Count Tilly was order'd with 50 Squadrons, 12 Battalions, 1000 Grenadiers, and 6 Pieces of Cannon, to March up into the Enemy's Country: The Foot commanded by the Earl of Orkney are to take Post at La Bassée; while the Horse advance towards Arras, and send Parties as far as Picardy to ravage the Country and keep up the Conternation.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated July 28.

Amsterdam, July 27. By an Express we have Letters from the Fleet under Admiral Leake, dated the 15th of this Month; which advise, that 4000 Troopers or Dragoons with their Horses, and 5000 Foot-Soldiers, with necessary Stores of Ammunition being imbarc'd at Vado, the Queen of Spain came on Board the Admiral's Ship the 13th; and that at the coming away of the Letters, the Fleet was under Sail for Barcelona.
